

Aquarius Instrument Collects NASA's First Salinity Data

This visualization begins with the collection of data swaths over Earth's ice-free oceans using the Aquarius instrument's three beams and ends with global coverage (it takes seven days to cover the entire globe). Color coding shows areas of lower salinity (blues and purples) and higher salinity (reds and yellows).